"The covid-19 pandemic continues its inexorable expansion around the world, imposing us to distance ourselves from each other when it does not slow death, desolation, worry, distress among us.

Beyond that, it teaches us a major lesson: love between us is the only way of our common survival, love through two key words: unity and solidarity.

This pandemic imposes on us a difficult choice either to live together or to perish all because at the end, it's all but life"- Harish Jagtani
